General Manager

MEET CHARLIE

Charlie is the General Manager at The Legacy Resort at Frenchman Hills. He began his career in the golf industry almost 30 years ago when he enrolled in Spokane Community College (SCC). After spending two years at SCC, Charlie transferred to Rutgers University where he completed the Professional Golf Turf Management Program. In 2005, Charlie decided to relocate to the Columbia Basin for a new job opportunity. Ten years later, he found Legacy Golf Course. As the new superintendent, Charlie knew that the course needed a lot of work, but he was ready for the challenge. His continued dedication for improving and transforming the golf course has made it what it is today and has led Charlie to his new position as the General Manager.

Creating the Course to Beat

When Charlie joined the team he knew the potential of Legacy Golf Course, but he felt that he needed to find a way to transform the course faster. Therefore, he started the Annual Course Improvement Tournament that allows for additional improvements every year. Over the last five years this tournament has become popular among members and has drawn other golfers from the area.

Hobbies & Likes

When Charlie is not out at the course, he enjoys fishing and mountain bike riding. He is also on the Royal Slope Fire Department and a coach for Royal High School. He recently got engaged to his best friend and soulmate Shannon, who as Charlie describes “has given him more patience and support than he could wish for”.
